Says Madison St. Sewer Shouldn't Be Discontinued

That the combination storm and sanitary sewer on Madison street, running from Olive street north, should not be abandoned as had been recommended by the board of health, is the belief of City Engineer C. V. Lewis, following an investigation. He says all the sewer lines are in frequent inspection to see that it is functioning properly. He also suggests that a 60-foot extension from the present end at the top of the bluff into the river be built to further remedy conditions.

Mr. Kerch's report on the case, which will be presented to the council at its adjourned regular meeting at 8 p. m. Monday following.

"In the matter of the recommendation of the board of health, referred to the city engineer for investigation, with reference to abandoning that portion of the sewer on Madison street from Olive street north, it is evident that in making this recommendation it was done without being fully advised of the existing conditions, and should not be done."

"The Madison street sewer was constructed as a combined sewer, carrying both storm water and sanitary sewerage from territory to the south and west, in the year 1909, before the plans for the present sanitary system were prepared. Provisions were made in these plans for intercepting the sanitary or dry weather flow into the sanitary system without taking all of the storm water flow. This sewer has a capacity of over three times that of the sanitary sewer where the two cross, and it will be necessary to continue this arrangement unless parallel sewers are provided for taking care of the sanitary sewerage flow at its source."

"The present arrangement acts in a satisfactory manner except when the intercepting connection between the two becomes clogged with debris carried down by heavy storms, as sometimes happens. This connection should receive frequent inspection to see that it is functioning properly. Inspection since the matter came up showed that two paving bricks had been carried down the Madison street sewer and lodged in the opening to the sanitary sewer."

"Conditions could further be remedied by extending the Madison street sewer from its present end at the top of the bluff into the river beyond, a distance of about 60 feet so that when such stoppage should occur, it would discharge into the river without allowing the dry weather flow to dribble over the rocks from the top of the bluff to the river."

Red Clergy Given Permission to Wed
(By Associated Press.)

Macon—All restrictions on marriage for bishops and clergymen have been removed by the "living church" of congress of the recently formed south church, whose members are working to have the new church take the place of the old orthodox church.

Among the "red clergy," the clergy of the new church are called the orthodox church is referred to as the "dead clergy."

It is contended by the "red clergy" that, by permitting marriages, clergymen are brought into closer contact with the community. Regarding monks, the congress decided the higher monks may disregard their vows and marry, still retaining their positions.

GUARDSMEN HOME AT 6:10 TONIGHT

Tanks and Cavalrymen Complete Two Weeks' Drill at Camp Douglas.

Put in fighting trim by an arduous two weeks' training period at Camp Douglas in which they have been taking the latest developments in modern warfare, 150 officers and men of Janesville's two Wisconsin national guard companies are expected home at 6:10 p. m. Monday over the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul.

The men are members of the 32nd division tank company, in command of Capt. Ralph E. Harmon, and the 53d headquarters cavalry brigade, under command of Capt. Gilman H. Stordock. The two weeks' period which closed Sunday marks the end of the annual visit of 7,000 Wisconsin national guardsmen to the camp.

The camping period was three days longer than any period since the war, being 15 days instead of only 12.

Capt. Stordock established himself as the crack rifle shot of the period.

Sunday was pay day when the privates received $1.50 for every day they were in camp. One dollar is from the government and 50 cents a day from the state. A sergeant draws $2 a day and a first class sergeant $2.50. Officers draw the same as their grade in the regular service.

ELKS TO PREPARE FOR BELOIT RALLY

To make final plans for attending the 1922 convention of the Wisconsin State Elks' association in Beloit, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week, Exalted Ruler Roger G. Cunningham has called a special meeting of the local lodge for 8 p. m. Tuesday. It is hoped to have a big delegation from Janesville to assist Beloit in making the affair a success. The local lodge is entitled to 25 official delegates but many non-delegates from here will also attend.

MASONIC PICNIC AT WAUPACA PLANNED

New London—An intercounty Masonic picnic will be held here Aug. 24 at Camp Cleghorn, Chain O' Lakes, Waupaca, and provision has been made for a baseball diamond, tennis courts, a bathing beach and parking space for several hundred cars. The Northern Wisconsin Masonic band will furnish music. Milton R. Stanley of Shawano will lead the community singing and Charles Carroll and W. A. Garfield will have charge of the entertainment.

COUNTY CONSIDERS WIDENING OF ROAD

Green Bay—Engineers from the Wisconsin highway commission are making a survey of the 9-foot concrete road south of Sandville. In Osgood county it is said that the Osgood county highway commission is considering widening the road to 20 feet at this point. The road has been troublesome to drivers of automobiles as it was necessary to drive a long stretch with two wheels on the concrete and two on the gravel road on the side.

SUICIDE, VERDICT IN GENEVA DEATH

Murder Theory in Maier Case Dropped With Decision of Coroner Jury.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Lake Geneva—The theory of foul play in the death of Frank J. Maier, 10-year old Des Moines youth, whose death and the finding of the body on the road between Lake Geneva and Williams Bay created a mystery, has been abandoned, so far as officials are concerned, with the verdict of "suicide" returned by a coroner's jury Saturday.

The father and brothers of the youth who came here last Saturday when the inquest opened, did not remain for the conclusion of the investigation Saturday, to which time the inquest was adjourned. In charge of the inquest was Coroner W. P. Best of Lake Geneva, assisted by District Attorney Easton Johnson.

The jury was composed of Edward Morris, Louis Lustigman, Charles Ball, Frank Mabbett, Bert Lemon and G. A. Van Slyke.

Today

Triumphant!

The delusion of the "good old days" dies hard. Yet do you know of a single person who actually would be willing to exchange the present for the past? Listen to this distinguished centenarian—inspiring apostle of Today Triumphant:

"The world is at least a hundred times finer than it used to be, and it's improving all the time! That's what civilization means."

So spoke former United States Senator Cornelius Cole of California. He will be one hundred years old in September—and he ought to know!

Let's appreciate today's blessings and today's opportunities.

10,000 Members of Red Arrow Division Expected in Madison for Meet.

Madison.—Preparations for the reception and entertainment of the 10,000 members of the Red Arrow Division who are expected to attend the fourth annual reunion of the famous division are now complete. Fraternity houses, hallways, and the entire student body are being put to work to make the reunion a success. The division is expected to arrive in Madison on Saturday, August 19, and will remain in the city until Sunday, August 20. The reunion is one of the largest of its kind in the world, and is expected to be a great success.

There are 10,000 members of the division living in Wisconsin, and about 8,000 live in Madison. The division was organized in 1918, and has since that time been a great help to the community. The reunion is a great opportunity for the division to get together and share their experiences. The division is expected to arrive in Madison on Saturday, August 19, and will remain in the city until Sunday, August 20. The reunion is one of the largest of its kind in the world, and is expected to be a great success.

The first day, Saturday, August 19, will be devoted to registration and the second day, Sunday, August 20, will be devoted to the reunion. The reunion is a great opportunity for the division to get together and share their experiences. The division is expected to arrive in Madison on Saturday, August 19, and will remain in the city until Sunday, August 20. The reunion is one of the largest of its kind in the world, and is expected to be a great success.

The business session of the reunion will be held Monday morning and afternoon when the whole division organization will convene, as will the 16 units into which the division is divided. The reunion is a great opportunity for the division to get together and share their experiences. The division is expected to arrive in Madison on Saturday, August 19, and will remain in the city until Sunday, August 20. The reunion is one of the largest of its kind in the world, and is expected to be a great success.

The last day will be called 32nd division day. A lacrosse game will be staged and a cavalry regiment from Milwaukee, the 105th, will give several exhibitions and play mounted games.

RACK UP FRUITS, IS WOODWORTH'S ADVICE

With the fruit season at its height, Dr. L. Woodworth, city sanitary inspector, is anxious to have grocers, when displaying fruit outside, take the time to place it on racks or in containers and not have it lying on the sidewalks, as it does upon the practice of placing melons in such an unsanitary way.

JEFFERSON

Jefferson.—The opening number of the Jefferson Musical Chautauque will be given Monday night, Aug. 14. A large attendance is expected as many season tickets have been sold by the committee. The program for Monday will include Fred Corwin in an entirely unique program by the prince of polyphonic artists; Signor Dellino, accordionist; Esther Hildebrandt, reader; and Leo Brademan, violinist of the American Conservatory of Music. A special number is booked for Tuesday afternoon and evening. The opening number is by the Givrin Artist Trio, consisting of Raymond E. Givrin, leader, and two other artists. The program will give selections from the best compositions. The second feature of Tuesday's program will be the Chicago Grand Opera company. Mr. Rogers is a recital artist and tenor singing the leading roles. Randall Farish, noted author, writer and actor, will conclude the program with a lecture.

The number of real estate transfers and papers recorded during the month of July in the office of the Register of Deeds of Jefferson county has decreased considerably over the number of last year for that month. According to C. J. Register, a member of the board of supervisors, recorded in the month of July, 1921, the total for that month, 1922, is 175, making a difference of 48 papers. There will be a difference of 48 papers during the month of August. According to the Register of Deeds the total number of papers recorded during the first 11 days of August, 1921, were 157, and for the first 11 days of August, 1922, were 76, a difference of 81.

RICHARD BARTHELMESS in "THE SEVENTH DAY"

A DEEP-SEA ROMANCE

—of the boy who met and loved on the FIRST DAY. —who kissed on the SECOND DAY. —and bitly dreamed under the SEVENTH DAY. That was SOME red-letter day.

Richard Barthelmess, George Stewart and Anne Cornwall in "The Seventh Day"

Drama. Surprise, Heart-break and Delight fills the seventh day in the romance of a man who didn't know women and a society shrew who didn't know herself.

Porter Emerson Browne wrote it. Henry King directed it—and remember, he made "Tobacco" too!

Also TWO-REEL MACK SWEENEY COMEDY.

THURSDAY—ONE DAY ONLY

AN ALLAN DWAN PRODUCTION

"THE SCOFFER"

A Drama of wonderful conflicts—Man's fate against man's fear. Man's passion against girl's love. Scoffer's skill against tempest's might.

Scenes of strife, of romance, of vivid vivid action. Men who are real men; men who are beasts. Women wonderful in their love; women pitiable in their frailty. All made real by Mary Thurman, James Kirkwood, Philo McCulloch, Rhea Mitchell, Noah Beery and a perfectly picked cast.

"The Scoffer" is a picture run about three weeks ago, and will limit our explanation to say this only, that it is as good as "The Miracle Man."

Also HAROLD LLOYD in one of his screen comedies, "HIS LADY DOLLY." 2 Reels.

GAZETTE OBSERVES 77TH BIRTHDAY

Fourth Oldest Newspaper in State Has Great Record.

Monday marks the close of the 77th birthday of the Janesville Daily Gazette. It was on Aug. 14, 1845 that Levi K. Alden and E. A. Stoddard turned off the first copy of the weekly Gazette. It was a little hand press in the small quarters on the second floor of a building at the corner of Main and Milwaukee streets where the Jackson building now stands.

All of the type was then set by hand. The papers were printed on a flat bed press, fed by hand and as the sheets came out they were taken to tables and folded by hand. In marked contrast to the methods of today, the bulk of the type is set by the linotype and the Ludlow. The latter casts slugs, made by the same process as that on the linotype, but lacks the red-inked-out features for matrices and the keyboard. The brass matrices are set by hand from cases, just like ordinary type would be handled.

The Ludlow is used largely for advertising, setting many and much larger letters than those on the linotype.

Big Press Is Marvel. Instead of a flat bed press there is in the Gazette plant today a great roller press, a mechanical marvel. The flat pages of type are transformed through a stotyping process into cylindrical forms of lead which are put on the press. The average issue of the Gazette is then run off on about nine miles of white paper. On a steady run it would take about a half hour. The papers as they come out are folded and counted. The Gazette was first published by Alden and Stoddard until the latter sold his interest to W. F. Tompkins, who in turn sold it to W. H. Gratton. These two transactions occurred within a year of each other. The paper was then sold to Charles Holt, who became a partner of Alden for a period which continued until 1857, when Holt became the sole proprietor and began regular publication of the morning Gazette. Two years later, Hiram Bowen and Daniel Wilson acquired an interest in the paper.

In 1854 the plant was sold to A. M. Thompson and W. C. Roberts, who with Daniel Wilson in 1859 organized the Gazette Printing Company with $18,000 capital stock. A year later, Gen. James Elliff, R. L. and A. M. Colvin bought the paper. These men continued in control until 1875 when their interests were purchased by Isaac and E. B. Farnsworth. The Colvins were not to be put long as three months later they returned and Isaac Farnsworth retired. The connection with the paper by the late Howard F. Bliss began in 1883 when he acquired a large interest together with Charles Smith and William Bladen, now president of the Merchants and Savings bank. Mr. Bliss became general manager and treasurer of the company and Nicholas Smith was editor.

In 1906 Bliss sold the paper to the building in which the Gazette is now located was built in 1903. The first and second floors and part of the basement were required to house the organization which daily makes the Gazette. The paper is made by a staff of 65 employees. The news, local, national and foreign, is gathered by wire and through the branches of the Associated Press. For the world the Associated Press news comes into the office by telegraph from 7:30 to 3:30. The local news is gathered by a staff of reporters and is carried by a corps of 70 correspondents. Because of the large territory of Southern Wisconsin covered by the Gazette, a fleet of automobiles and trucks is now used to carry the papers from the plant to these towns. Since the Gazette's 75th anniversary, there has been a marked increase in circulation which has put the Gazette for the first time in the newspapers of the state having more than 10,000 circulation.

U. S. Injunction Ordered Against St. Paul Shopmen

An injunction against striking employees of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway at Janesville was put in force Saturday, upon orders of the United States district court at Madison. It supersedes the restraining order that had been in effect since Aug. 2. A similar injunction was ordered in other Wisconsin terminals of the St. Paul system.

Local railroad men, under Charles Swan, secretary of the strikers' organization, fought the injunction. They were armed with affidavits from Chief of Police Charles Newman, and Officers Charles Handy, Peter Champion and Charles Dickinson; and from Sheriff Cash Wimpale and Under Sheriff Fred Ebel. The affidavits were to the effect that there has been nothing in Janesville in the shape of any violence by the strikers, or by their instigation, or in the name of any person to believe anything of the kind is anticipated. Answer to the court's restraining order was entered by Charles E. Ebel, Janesville, attorney for the local strikers.

Miner Unearths Mastodon Bones

[By Associated Press.] Edmonston, Alta.—In a valley of the far northern section of British Columbia, close to the Yukon border, which is believed was never before visited by a white man, Frank Perry, mining engineer of Vancouver, has discovered the remains of mastodons that once roamed Northern Canada. The location of the valley is not marked on maps, but it is north and west of the headwaters of the Finlay river. Indians will not travel through the valley, believing it to be haunted by the giant animals whose bones they have seen.

In addition to the bones there are footprints in the sandstone and shale of some other prehistoric monsters showing that the maker of the tracks was a three-toed animal. The bones, which are of great size, are not fossilized, but are in a state of excellent preservation. Hip bones and sections of the spine were found by Mr. Perry, who believes that by the manner of their being found, they are not fossilized, but are in a state of excellent preservation. WORK MOVES FAST ON STATE HOSPITAL

To-Finish 4 Buildings by Sept. 15.—Strike Effects Felt.

Despite adverse conditions three of the main buildings which will comprise Wisconsin's soldier hospital, at Madison will be completed by the U. S. military company of Janesville, by Sept. 1, Mr. Williams said Monday. These will be the disturbed patients' and inmates' buildings and the refectory. The employees' building is to be completed Sept. 15. The total cost is $127,000.

In the opinion of Mr. Williams the railroad and coal strikes will result in stopping 80 per cent of the construction work east of the Mississippi river where the priority order of movement of coal goes into effect. The week of Aug. 5 saw a $30,000, 000 reduction in the amount of construction work let, as compared with the previous week, in the nation, he said.

"If the situation continues contractors will have to shut down for the year," said Mr. Williams. "Because of the demand being larger than the supply many building materials will jump in price. The plants of the Portland and Marquette cement companies at Ogleby, Ill., are shut down, because they can't get coal or cur. The condition is hardly that which existed at the close of the war. Few contractors, I for one, are figuring on any jobs, feeling that we will be fortunate to complete the jobs we now have on hand."

PRINCE IS RESTING AFTER WORLD JAUNT

London.—With the exception of a luncheon given in his honor by the City of London corporation, the Prince of Wales will undertake few, if any, public engagements during the next few weeks. Toward the end of September it is probable he will "play himself in" as captain of the Royal and Ancient Golf club at St. Andrews and there is every probability that the fixture will be treated as one of the utmost interest and importance throughout golfing circles in Great Britain. The prince's first ball from the toe will be recorded in traditional fashion and will become a treasured possession.

QUIZ VISITORS TO HOME OF BALZERS

Former Waifs Tell of Unwelcome Guests; Brother May Live to Tell Tale.

[By Associated Press.] Sauk City.—Police officers and detectives were again today depending on William Balzer, third victim of the slayers who last week killed his brother, Julius, and sister, Mary, on their farm near here, to tell them details of the crime that will give a tangible clue to the identity of the killers.

In the hospital here, William, suffering from a fractured skull, had partially regained consciousness and was attempting to answer questions. He may live to recount the story of the farm murder, solving the mystery which has surrounded the crime since it was committed, hospital authorities believe.

A detective who spent the morning attempting to get from the man some statement concerning the murders, left on another investigation. It is understood that two visitors to the Balzer farm, a young girl and young man, who were staying with the family a short time ago, but whose names are not known to neighbors or friends of the restless farmers, victims of the tragedy.

The discovery of Mary Isala and her two brothers, Tom and Harry Firmess, one time fresh air waifs who had been boarded by the Balzers, failed to give investigators the clue to solve the mystery, which they are seeking. In Chicago Saturday and Sunday, the three declared that they could give no information that would lead to detection of the murderers, when questioned by District Attorney H. J. Behn of Sauk City.

Unwelcome Guests. Mary Isala told, however, of a girl and her husband who had visited the Balzers after she had spent a week on the farm during June.

They are said to have forced their visit on the three residents of the farm after they had been told that their visit was not welcome. Effort is being made to locate this couple in the hope that they will be able to throw light on the slaying, while the investigation is continuing here, no new information has been unearthed.

The Art of Keeping Cool

is the art of preparing foods that supply in digestible form all the nutriment the body needs for the sultry days when the vitality is low and the appetite is "fussy."

Shredded Wheat

is a cooling food, rich in the elements that build healthy tissue without heating the blood. Keeps the body buoyant and the mind alert and active. Contains all the bran you need for stimulating bowel movement—a peppy food for old and young.

Two Biscuits with milk or cream make a complete, nourishing meal. Eat it for breakfast with sliced bananas or prunes; for lunch with berries; for dinner with sliced peaches, apricots, stewed raisins, or fresh fruits. Ready-cooked, ready-to-eat.

Made only by the Shredded Wheat Company, Niagara Falls, N. Y.

VETS HAVE 5 YEARS TO FILE CLAIMS

Little attention has been paid up to the present time to that section of the war risk insurance act which provides for making claim for disability incurred in the United States service. Under this section it specifically states "That no compensation shall be payable unless a claim therefor be filed, in case of disability, within five years after discharge, or resignation from the service."

All claims and information concerning same may be taken up with the district office, U. S. Veterans' Bureau, 111 North Canal street, Chicago, or with the sub-district office of the U. S. Veterans' Bureau at 14 North Carroll street, Madison.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The Hoover Suction Sweeper will be sold henceforth in Janesville by the Janesville Electric Company.

The friendliest feeling has always existed between J. M. Bostwick & Sons and the Hoover Company, and the transferring of the agency is for the sole reason that, being an electrical device, the servicing can be handled more efficiently by the Janesville Electric Company.

The Hoover Suction Sweeper has always come up to our fullest expectations and in our opinion is today, as we have always claimed for it, "The Best Vacuum Sweeper on the Market."

We herewith desire to thank all our patrons and friends who purchased the Hoover from The Big Store and recommend them to the Janesville Electric Company for any servicing the machine may need with the assurance that the same will receive careful and prompt attention.

Signed,

J. M. BOSTWICK & SONS.

The Cross-Cut

A Serial Story of the Colorado Mines

By Courtney Ryley Cooper.

SYNOPSIS

At Thornton Fairchild's death his son Robert learns there has been a dark period in his father's life which for almost 20 years has caused him suffering. The secret is hinted at in a document left by the elder Fairchild, which shows that he was a miner, a new owner of a mining claim in Colorado, and advising him to see Henry Beamish, a gambler, who tells Robert his claim, a silver mine, is at Ohadi, thirty-eight miles from Denver. He also warns him against a certain man, "Squint" Rodaine, his father's enemy. Robert decides to go to Ohadi.

CHAPTER III

On the road to Ohadi, from Denver Fairchild assists a girl, apparently in a frenzy of haste to change a tire on her car. When she has left, the sheriff and a posse appear, in pursuit of a bandit. Fairchild, bewildered, thrusts them as to the direction the girl had taken.

It was too calling for thought, Robert Fairchild hastily made his toilet, then answered the ringing of the dinner bell, to be introduced to strong-shouldered men who appeared about the long tables. Colorful men, who talked in a "Western" language, who talked of "hunks" and a sprinkling of English, all of whom conversed about things which were to Fairchild as so much Greek—"hunks" and "stoppers" and "rises," which meant nothing to the man who yet must consider them all, if he were to follow his ambition.

Robert Fairchild spoke but seldom, except to acknowledge the introductions as Mother Howard made him known to each of his table mates. But it was not aloofness; from the first the newcomer had liked the mingling of culture with the lack of it, liked the enthusiasm, the muscle and brawn, liked them all—all but two.

Instinctively, from the first mention of his name, he felt that two men who sat far in the rear of the big dining room, older than the other occupants, far less inviting in appearance. One was small, though chunky in build, with sandy hair and eyes, with a wide, friendly smile over which the lids blinked constantly. The other, black-haired with streaks of gray, powerful in his build, and with a warring-like mustache, looking over his shoulder at the rest of the table. He was the smaller, sandy-complexioned man. Fairchild did not know him, but he recognized the other, who was a man of mine, that they followed the great gambler, the man they talked about throughout the meal; they talked about Mother Howard and her son, who seemed to recognize in him someone who brought both curiosity and innate enmity to the surface. And more; long before the first glass of wine was drunk, they had left the room, apparently, upon some important mission.

After that, Fairchild ate with less of a relish. In his mind was the certainty that these two men knew him, and that they did not relish his presence. Nor were his suspicions long in being fulfilled. Hardly had he reached the hall, when the black-haired man, who had been sitting next to him, turned and looked eagerly toward Mother Howard as she once more approached.

"I don't know what you're doing here," came sharply, "but I want to see you." Fairchild straightened. "There isn't much to tell you," he answered quietly. "My father left me the mine. I'm here to work it."

"Know anything about mining?" "Not a thing." "Or the people you're liable to have to buck up against?" "Very little." "Then, son, and Mother Howard laid a kindly hand on his arm, "what ever you do, keep your plans to your self. You don't talk too much. And what's more, if you happen to get into communication with Blindeye, Boreman and Taylor Bill, let your head off. Maybe you saw 'em, a sandy-haired fellow and a big man with a black mustache, sitting at the back of the room?" Fairchild nodded. "Well, stay away from them. They belong to 'Squint' Rodaine. Know him?"

She shot the question sharply. "Ain't he the name, who is he?" "A voice called to Mother Howard from the dining room. She turned away, then leaned toward Robert Fairchild. "That's a miner, and he's always been a miner. Right now he's mixed up with some of the biggest people in town. He's always been a man to be afraid of—and he was your father's worst enemy."

Then, Fairchild staring after her, she moved on to her duties in the kitchen.

CHAPTER IV

Impatiently Fairchild awaited Mother Howard's return, and when at last she came forth from the kitchen, he drew her into the old parlor, shadowy now in the gathering dusk, and closed the doors.

"Mrs. Howard," he began, "I ain't used to being called 'son' else."

"Mother, then—although I'm not very accustomed to using the title. My own mother died—shortly after my father came back from out here."

"What do you want to know, son?" "Everything."

"But there isn't much I can tell. He caught her hand."

"Then I'll know there is, I—"

"Son, I can do is to make matters worse. If I know anything that would help you—if I could give you any light on anything, Old Mother Howard would do it. Lord, didn't I help you find her when he needed it the worst way? But I'm as much in the dark as you. All that I ever knew was that your father came to this boarding house when he was young, and the very first day that he ever struck Ohadi. He didn't have much money, but he was enthusiastic—and it wasn't long before he'd told me about his wife and baby back in Indianapolis and how he'd like to win out for their sake. As for me—well, they always called me Mother Howard, even when I was a young thing, sort of setting my cap for every good-looking young man that came in here. I guess that's why I never caught one of 'em—I always insisted on darning their socks and looking after all their troubles for 'em instead of going out busy-fishing with some other fellow, as you might say."

"Then he didn't make any money, did he?" "No, he didn't. But that ain't getting to the point, though, is it?"

"If you could tell me about my father—"

"Going to—all I know. Things were a lot different out here then from what they were later. Everywhere around the hills and gulches you could see prospectors, with their picks and shovels, looking around like they didn't mean anything in the world to 'em, except to grub around in those rocks."

"Your father was one of those men, Squint Rodaine was another."

"Squint Rodaine was another?—some time in his life he'd tried to shoot faster than the other fellow—and didn't do it. The bullet hit right between his eyes, but it must have had poor power."

"Through the skin and go straight up his forehead. When the wound healed, the scar drew his eyes close together, like a Chinaman's. You never saw Squint's eyes more than half open."

"And he crooked, just like his eye?" "Mother Howard's voice bore a touch of resentment. "Never liked him for the minute I first saw him, and I liked him less afterward. Then I got not to his game."

ONE TRICK A NIGHT

"MAKES TABLE TALK BRIGHT"

REVEALING A DRAWN CARD

This is without doubt one of the best and apparently most inexplicable little tricks ever presented. An unprepared pack of cards is passed out for examination, a card selected, the card replaced and the whole deck shuffled.

Here is the simple modus operandi: When pack is returned, the magician bends the pack almost in half. This will cause every card in the deck to curve very noticeably. Now, when the chosen card is returned it can easily be recognized by the performer, being the only one in the whole pack that is straight.

they are nice warmed in tomato sauce.

In roasting veal put one-half lemon in the pan.

Strips of green and red sweet peppers arranged crosswise make a pretty garnish for asparagus or meat.

Stuff duck with hot mashed potatoes.

One-half pound sausage cooked and cut in small pieces makes a nice favoring for turkey dressing.

WHAT TO SERVE—

With roast beef, horseradish.

With roast veal, tomato sauce.

With roast mutton, currant jelly.

With roast pork, apple sauce.

With roast lamb, mint sauce.

With roast turkey, chestnut dressing, cranberry sauce.

With roast goose, tart apple sauce.

With roast duck, black currant jelly.

With roast quail, currant jelly.

With roast chicken, corn fritters.

With cold boiled tongue, olives.

With veal sausage or loaf, tomato sauce.

LATEST NEWS AND CLOSING MARKETS

Weekly Livestock Review

CATTLE.—All steers except the few top choice grades declined about 10c to 15c last week. This covers the loss, except on grassy, undesirable steers, where the decline was negligible. Top and near top grades held about steady. While there was a strong and prompt demand for the best quality of steers, the market was not so strong as it was a few weeks ago. Quotations for low grade killing steers and native beef cattle follow:

26 Counties Have State Fair Entries Grain Prospects Showing Increase

Grain Prospects Showing Increase.—Wisconsin's small grain prospects increased over 7,000,000 bushels during July and the total production of small grain is now estimated at 128,215,000 bushels, said the Wisconsin Co-operating Reporter and Service in its report of the conditions of crops on Aug. 1.

The cool weather during July benefited the filling and ripening of small grain. The report says that the grain was in condition but spring wheat was somewhat below the reported July condition.

The 1922 crop of oats in Wisconsin is estimated at 14,511,000 bushels, as compared to 10,444,000 bushels produced last year. Condition on Aug. 1 was 96 per cent, compared to 65 per cent last year.

On the basis of Aug. 1 condition, the Wisconsin barley crop is estimated at 10,444,000 bushels, as compared to 10,444,000 bushels produced last year. Condition on Aug. 1 was 96 per cent, compared to 65 per cent last year.

Production of wheat in 1921 will be 14,511,000 bushels, as compared to 10,444,000 bushels produced last year. Condition on Aug. 1 was 96 per cent, compared to 65 per cent last year.

powerful railway combination with out lending the common enemy, moral indignation. You, as our leader, must realize that the life and death struggle of labor has come at last and we find big business very cunningly surrounded by laws and decrees calculated to make the laborer unhelpful and to put the fear of God in every laboring man's heart. Yet, Brother Jewell exploded the much heralded cry that we could all go to hell if we went on strike and the Chicago elevated companies exploded the dictum that it is unlawful to strike in sympathy. What's next? Let's be fair, let's be honest, let's not joke with our American people and let's not let our forefathers and defy the powers that seek our destruction as a free people, be they foreign or domestic. Law abiding, we must and will be, but if a law is enacted which is for its object the enslavement of a free people for the enrichment of a certain class, we are compelled to go in our little library and dig up our copy of the Declaration of Independence, and if we are to be Americans in every truth, we must admit we are sadly lacking in the present crisis.

Are Considered Strike Breakers.—Numerous letters and telegrams coming to my desk all testify to the fact that we are looked upon by the railways as strike breakers. I am not a strike breaker, nor do I intend to be. I am a worker, and I am proud of my work. I am not a strike breaker, nor do I intend to be. I am a worker, and I am proud of my work. I am not a strike breaker, nor do I intend to be. I am a worker, and I am proud of my work.

BLACK MEOWERS HANG DEFEAT ON TOBACCOS, 12-3

Defeating the Edgerton team of the Southern Wisconsin League, 12 to 3, the Janesville Black Cats added another win to their string. The game was played Sunday at Maple Beach, Lake Koshkonong. A large crowd saw the contest, and the Black Cats were on the mound for the first time. Pitching a steady game, and given splendid support, he never was in danger. He held the Tobacco City boys to six hits and struck out eight.

Two Edgerton Pitchers. Plus was touched for 17 hits before he was relieved by Passenden in the eighth, who gave four more bingles. Neither Edgerton pitcher was given full support.

Silverthorn was behind the bat for the Black Cats, Gregory having gone to third for Clatworthy, who was out of the game with a sprained wrist. Jimmy Hult, Brown caught a steady game.

The feature of the day was a double play, unassisted, by Schoenig on first.

First man up in the second frame, picked the first ball pitcher for a home. He got another four-bagger in the fourth. Hult also counted a circuit smash.

Where Edgerton Scored. Edgerton got their first run in the third, and their second and third in the eighth.

The Black Cats had Edgerton somewhat outclassed in every position. An unusual feature was the Trevorrah brothers, and also the Hallett brothers, playing against each other.

Next Sunday, the Black Cats take on the K. P.s of Rockford, at Janesville.

Busy Man's Sport Page

BY FRANK SINCLAIR
PRAISE for the 1922 harness meeting of the Janesville Park association is being broadcasted, not only by those in attendance, but by the press. Such advertising augurs well for the 1923 program.

ON THE OTHER hand, there is a certain element that went home disappointed. They were people mostly from long distances—from Chicago and Milwaukee. Included in their number were hundreds of others from nearby communities.

THE WONDERFUL success of the races made them doubly disappointed. Why? Because, after coming so far, they discovered upon arriving at the grounds that it was impossible to buy a seat or squeeze into the amphitheatre. They will not hold it against the management, however, for action is taken to make a recurrence impossible.

THIS YEAR'S meeting will be a drawing power for next year. That's psychology. Last year's program had that effect this year. But grandstand space is inadequate even in 1922, was utterly lacking this summer.

THERE CAN be no denying the situation. Will the board of directors of the association meet next year? Even if they only rent a couple of thousand bleachers they will be progressing. If the matter is let alone another year, the association will have more money and more money than the cost of such an improvement.

Red Sox Maul Colored Cubs, Winning, 14-8

With Hoag pitching good ball, the Janesville Red Sox took the Edge-Janesville Colored Cubs into camp Sunday, 14 to 8. With 12 runs to the good, Hoag eased up in the last two frames, handing the visitors six runs. That was the end of the Sox clout the ap, but the Cubs were forced to use two pitchers in the last two innings. Datson was reached for 15 hits and 12 runs in five frames, while P. John saw seven hits and two runs in three.

The Cubs were guilty of four errors while the Sox played an air tight game. One error occurred when the Cubs' centerfielder ran far back and robbed Phil Schmidt of what looked like a sure home. It was the preliminary.
